Will Print on Wednesday

The Herald next week will be printed on Wednesday. This, to enable the force to enjoy the next day, Thanksgiving, as a holiday. All patrons are requested to send in copy for advertising and changes before Monday night and contributors are urged to send in news items at the earliest possible moment.

The following from the Polk County Record expresses our sentiments exactly: "The editor of a local paper can't find out everything that happens. Don't think that because your name does not appear in the paper that you are intentionally slighted. We try to get every item of local news, yet it is impossible to get them all. You could help us out in this matter if you would only tell us what you know. You may neglect this, taking for granted that because you know it the editor does also. In this you are often mistaken. We appreciate our friends telling us any news items they know."

Music and Expression Club

The Music and Expression Club met at the home of Miss Henrietta Farrington, Friday, Nov. 17. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. Roll call was answered with quotations from music.

Mrs. McAdow was present and read a letter from E. F. Scott encouraging the club in their work and urging them to make every effort to win the cup offered by the Music Lovers' Association. She also read the constitution and by-laws of the Music Lovers' Association, which were discussed by the club. A temporary program, which was to be used in the contest at Arcadia, Dec. 19., was submitted.

It was decided that at our next meeting we would practice parliamentary law, so far studied by a "mock drill."

There being no further business, the following program was rendered:

Piano solo, Miss Thelma White; vocal solo, Miss Henrietta Farrington; life of Schubert, Mrs. Goldstein; vocal solo, Miss Marina Harvey; piano solo, Miss Lillian Corbett.

After being served with delicious refreshments, the club adjourned to meet at the home of Miss Bessie Fitz-Gerald, Friday Nov. 24th.—FLORENCE ROBINSON, Sec'y.

Doing an Immense Business

One of the big mail order houses in Chicago did business in October to the extent of over $15,000,000. That was a mighty good thing for that business house, for Chicago, and for the treasury of Cook county, but it was a mighty poor thing for hundreds of small towns whose merchants were passed over by a lot of people who helped to hinder the prosperity of their towns and their business men by sending to the mail order house for most of the things they wanted to buy. One wonders how much that mail order house, and other mail order houses of the same kind, contributed to the taxes, public institutions and other interests of the numerous towns from which they drew the larger part of their custom. And yet one need not wonder, for in every instance the answer would be "nothing." Apart from the question of local patriotism, which ought to be prominent in every citizen, what did those purchasers gain in ignoring their own business men and in sending away millions of dollars for goods they might just as well and just as cheaply have bought at home? Of course there are some things that one has to send away for, but those things constitute but a small proportion of the total spent. Verily, there are some folks so inculcated by the mail order germ that they would sooner send away for a spool of thread than buy it next door.—Gainesville Sun.

Ladies should see the fine collection of choice Christmas presents which the ladies of the Methodist church will have on sale this evening, tomorrow and next day in the Welch block.

Sophomore Notes

The class runt, Mr. Henry Farrington, was named "Jona" in honor of Mrs. McAdow's little monkey by one of the best looking girls in the Sophomore class. I want to know which was the most important of the two.

Miss Annie Knight has been unanimously elected as "class dictionary."

Miss Elizabeth Coram generously gave Mr. McCully a recipe for making pineapple beer. Who sharpened your pencils for you in the past, Elizabeth?

Last Friday, in algebra, Miss Audry Sands opened her mouth to catch a fly, but she became tickled, fell out of her chair and made such pious looking gestures that Mr. McCully thought she had got religion and was shouting for joy.

Miss Anna Mae Sikes, a famous dishwasher, washed the sals (sauce) she was making the other day with the dishes, then ate it. Miss Glenn, your pupil must be in love.

A hard gust of wind blew down one of our basket ball goals and mashed the basket into pieces. Some of us must be Jonah.

Miss Mary Hagan, more commonly known as "Old Summer Sault Turner," jumped head-first from her back porch with a dish pan full of water and landed on all fours. Yes, that is the way she practices for ball playing.

One day last week Miss Bertha Hagan was seventeen years old, and I discovered a gray hair in her hair. O, well, any one who can walk as fast as she can naturally gets old quickly.—Ula McGehee, Chairman.

If the Irish really were to be treated like the colonials they would be in the front trenches.
